The New York Times
NEW YORK, FRIDAY, MAY 22, 2009
$1.50

In Ex-Convicts’ Bomb Case, Steps and Missteps, on Tape
Details of Homogeneous Terror Conspiracy Described

By MICHAEL WILSON

They were few in number — one, a crack addict, another whose recent arrest involved domestic violence — and yet their actions, they said, set the stage for what turned out to be a multimillionaire, Hisham Talaat Moustafa, was sentenced to death for a multimillionaire, Hisham Talaat Moustafa, was sentenced to death for

INTERNATIONAL A1

REPRESENTATIVE BY BEIJING — On April 30, the one in 600 people who

They were few in number — one, a crack addict, another whose recent arrest involved domestic violence — and yet their actions, they said, set the stage for what turned out to be a homogenous terrorist plot.

By PETER BAKER

Obama Would Make Some Terror Detainees to U.S.

A ‘Surgical Approach’ to Policy, and Its Pitfalls

By HENRY COWRY

Chinatowns and Little Emperors

China’s Students Feel a Faint Tug

Details of Homegrown Terror Conspiracy Described

Relatives, above, reacted to the verdict on Youth Day because of a homegrown terrorist plot.

By PETER BAKER

NEWS ANALYSIS

A multimillionaire, Hisham Talaat Moustafa, was sentenced to death for

By HENRY COWRY

Chinatowns and Little Emperors

China’s Students Feel a Faint Tug

Details of Homegrown Terror Conspiracy Described

Relatives, above, reacted to the verdict on Youth Day because of a homegrown terrorist plot.

By PETER BAKER

Obama Would Make Some Terror Detainees to U.S.

A ‘Surgical Approach’ to Policy, and Its Pitfalls

By HENRY COWRY

Chinatowns and Little Emperors

China’s Students Feel a Faint Tug

Details of Homegrown Terror Conspiracy Described

Relatives, above, reacted to the verdict on Youth Day because of a homegrown terrorist plot.

By PETER BAKER

Obama Would Make Some Terror Detainees to U.S.

A ‘Surgical Approach’ to Policy, and Its Pitfalls

By HENRY COWRY

Chinatowns and Little Emperors

China’s Students Feel a Faint Tug

Details of Homegrown Terror Conspiracy Described

Relatives, above, reacted to the verdict on Youth Day because of a homegrown terrorist plot.

By PETER BAKER

Obama Would Make Some Terror Detainees to U.S.

A ‘Surgical Approach’ to Policy, and Its Pitfalls

By HENRY COWRY

Chinatowns and Little Emperors

China’s Students Feel a Faint Tug

Details of Homegrown Terror Conspiracy Described

Relatives, above, reacted to the verdict on Youth Day because of a homegrown terrorist plot.

By PETER BAKER

Obama Would Make Some Terror Detainees to U.S.

A ‘Surgical Approach’ to Policy, and Its Pitfalls

By HENRY COWRY

Chinatowns and Little Emperors

China’s Students Feel a Faint Tug

Details of Homegrown Terror Conspiracy Described

Relatives, above, reacted to the verdict on Youth Day because of a homegrown terrorist plot.

By PETER BAKER

Obama Would Make Some Terror Detainees to U.S.

A ‘Surgical Approach’ to Policy, and Its Pitfalls

By HENRY COWRY

Chinatowns and Little Emperors

China’s Students Feel a Faint Tug

Details of Homegrown Terror Conspiracy Described

Relatives, above, reacted to the verdict on Youth Day because of a homegrown terrorist plot.
The first New Yorker, Jabrai J. Copney, 20, turned himself in on Monday afternoon while standing on a stairwell at the Statler-Hilton, 288 Madison Avenue. He was arrested after a fellow employee reported that he had been acting suspiciously. The incident occurred around 3:30 p.m.

The employee, who wished to remain anonymous, said that Copney had been acting strange for several hours before the incident. He was observed walking around the hotel’s lobby, muttering to himself, and displaying unusual behavior. The employee became concerned and decided to report the incident to hotel security.

Security personnel arrived on the scene and detained Copney. He was cooperative and did not resist arrest. He was later taken to the 28th Precinct for processing. There, he was charged with disorderly conduct and public indecency.

Copney, a resident of Queens, was taken to Rikers Island after posting bail. He is scheduled to appear in court on Tuesday morning.

The incident is currently under investigation by the New York City Police Department’s Special Victims Unit. Anyone with information regarding this incident is encouraged to contact Detective Smith at 212-527-4917.

The Statler-Hilton has been operating in New York City since 1938. It is located at 288 Madison Avenue and is known for its luxurious accommodations and world-class service.

A Seat at the Table

Stephanie J. Alexander, a New York City woman who turned herself in on Monday afternoon, has been charged with disorderly conduct and public indecency. She was arrested after a fellow employee reported that she had been acting suspiciously. The incident occurred around 3:30 p.m.

The employee, who wished to remain anonymous, said that Alexander had been acting strange for several hours before the incident. He was observed walking around the hotel’s lobby, muttering to himself, and displaying unusual behavior. The employee became concerned and decided to report the incident to hotel security.

Security personnel arrived on the scene and detained Alexander. She was cooperative and did not resist arrest. She was later taken to the 28th Precinct for processing. There, she was charged with disorderly conduct and public indecency.

Alexander, a resident of Brooklyn, was taken to Rikers Island after posting bail. She is scheduled to appear in court on Tuesday morning.

The incident is currently under investigation by the New York City Police Department’s Special Victims Unit. Anyone with information regarding this incident is encouraged to contact Detective Smith at 212-527-4917.

The Statler-Hilton has been operating in New York City since 1938. It is located at 288 Madison Avenue and is known for its luxurious accommodations and world-class service.